PROSPECT '75

abraham venit
principal

TO THE
CLASS
OF 1975:

PROSPECT'S theme: John Jay's Still Alive in '75! Yes, alive — and well. Thanks, at least in part, to this class of '75.

Yours is a class with which I have a special bond. I arrived at John Jay with those of you entering the ninth year in September of 1971. You therefore constitute my first full generation of Jay students. Now you are leaving as graduates. I think I will stay on — I can't ever seem to make "graduation."

As I write this in January, I can't say that the larger community you will be entering looks particularly attractive. And it's not just the bleakness of winter. We have had good times, high prices and high employment before; and we have had bad times, low prices and unemployment. But, now we seem have managed to pull off, perversely, what has been that most difficult economist's trick: a unique combination of both inflation AND recession — both high prices AND unemployment. And we don't have any easy answers . . .

Hopefully, when you read this in June the summer sun will have dispersed some of these clouds. Whether it's higher education or the work world for you, may bright skies light the way.

Cordially,

Abraham H. Venit

Thanks to them for making school life more than just a bunch of dull routine classes.

HOMework HELPERS

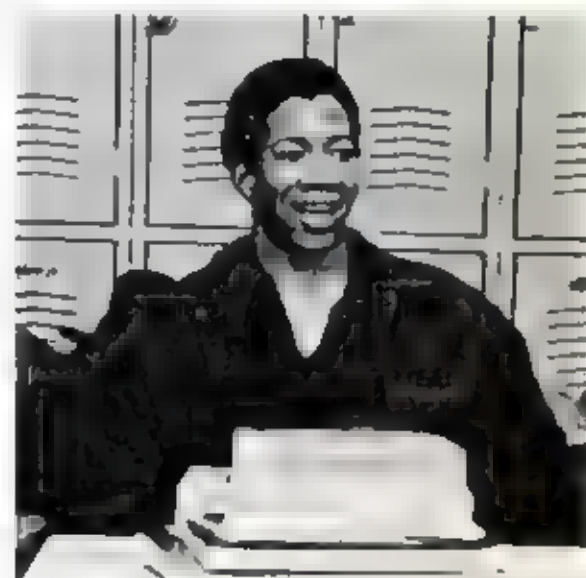

One of the most successful programs currently being run in John Jay is the Peer Tutoring Program, formerly Homework Helpers. Its purpose, as the title states, is to have students tutor students, thereby allowing them to learn in a comfortable one-to-one atmosphere. In charge of the program are Mr. Ron Mannarino, Mr. Anthony Aweeky and Mr. Bob Nuss. The entire program itself, however, is a city-orientated one, funded by the Board of Education.

Representing everything from the John Jay Track Team to Arista, the Leadership Class was made up of students in the school who were interested in becoming the leaders of tomorrow. Mr. Jesse Lazarus, the "leader of the leaders," ran an informal, yet interesting and informative class. The class learned about contemporary problems facing leaders from many walks of life; a marine sargent who presented the military viewpoint and UFT representatives who pointed out the importance of good school leadership. The class discussed issues of current interest, relevant to the techniques of leadership needed for tomorrow.

A "Nicely-Nicely" time was had by all at this spectacular performance that really "Rocked the Boat." With Michael Nemson as director, Venetia Guerrasio (Miss Adelaide), Peter Gomez (Nathan Detroit), Lucy Lopez (Sarah Brown) and Freddie Ellis (Sky Masterson), and a fantastic supporting cast and crew, the stage seemed to come alive with gangsters, mission dolls, "Hot Box" girls and all the excitement of city life. "Luck was your Lady that night" if you saw the Fall Production of GUYS AND DOLLS.

ASPIRA

Aspira was introduced to John Jay by fifteen of its Spanish speaking students. Today, students have a club that will aid them in their community. With the assistance of Mr. Montes and Mr. Garcia, Aspira members not only see the need for a good education, but also how important it is to work together with people of different backgrounds and ideas. The following are members of Arista:

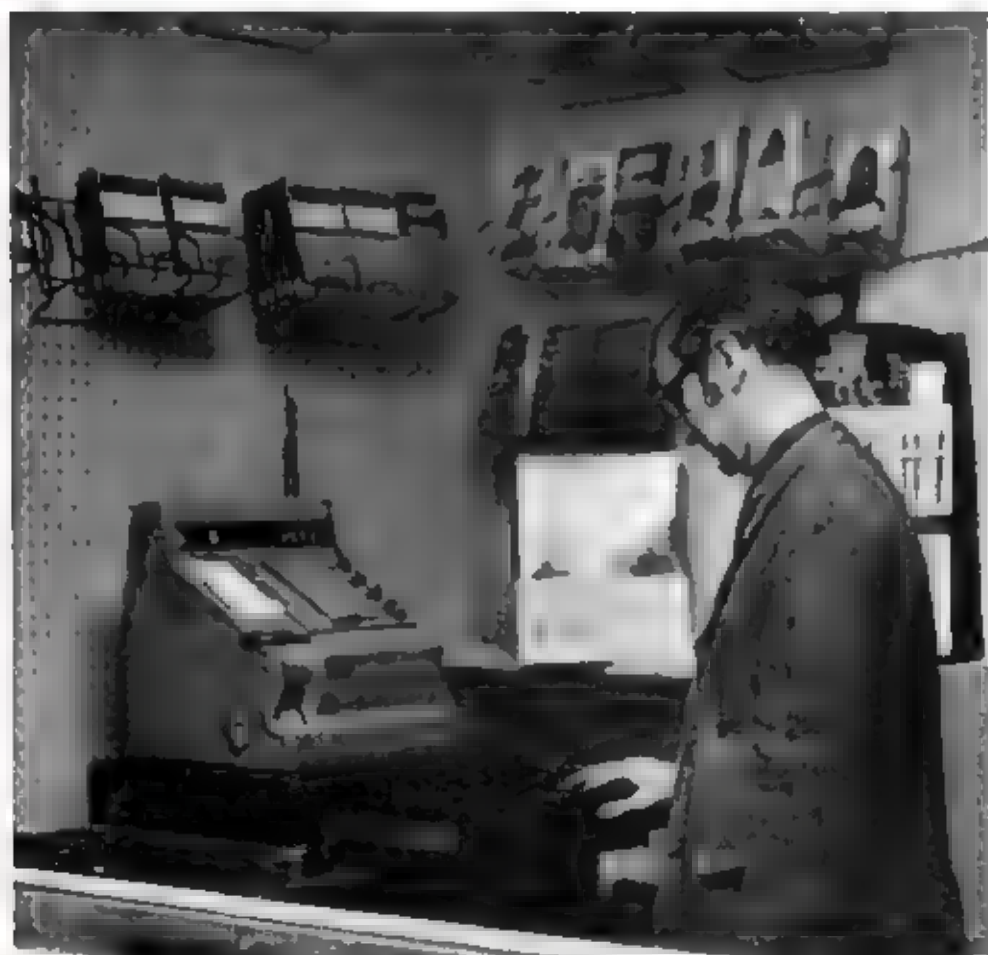

Edgar Rodriguez
David Hernandez, v.p.
Debbie Pena

Angel Figueroa, president
Raul Torres
Jeanette Colon

Eddie Lopez
Richard Gonzalez
Millie Rodriguez

G. O. S T O R E

The G.O. store, under the loyal supervision of Mr. Charles Cederroth, has been an asset to all John Jay students since its beginning. It permitted us to purchase all needed school supplies at reduced prices. Available items ranged from pencils and erasers to gym suits, official school jackets and current best selling books.

high school's ended
it's just a start.
because it's here
we must depart.
entering the world
in anticipation.
we should
remember hesitation

once again
an embryo
we'll use caution
as we grow.

we go our way
and in future days
perhaps we'll meet
on the street.
see you soon
maybe on the moon
but i'll be aware
and i do care.

james reilly

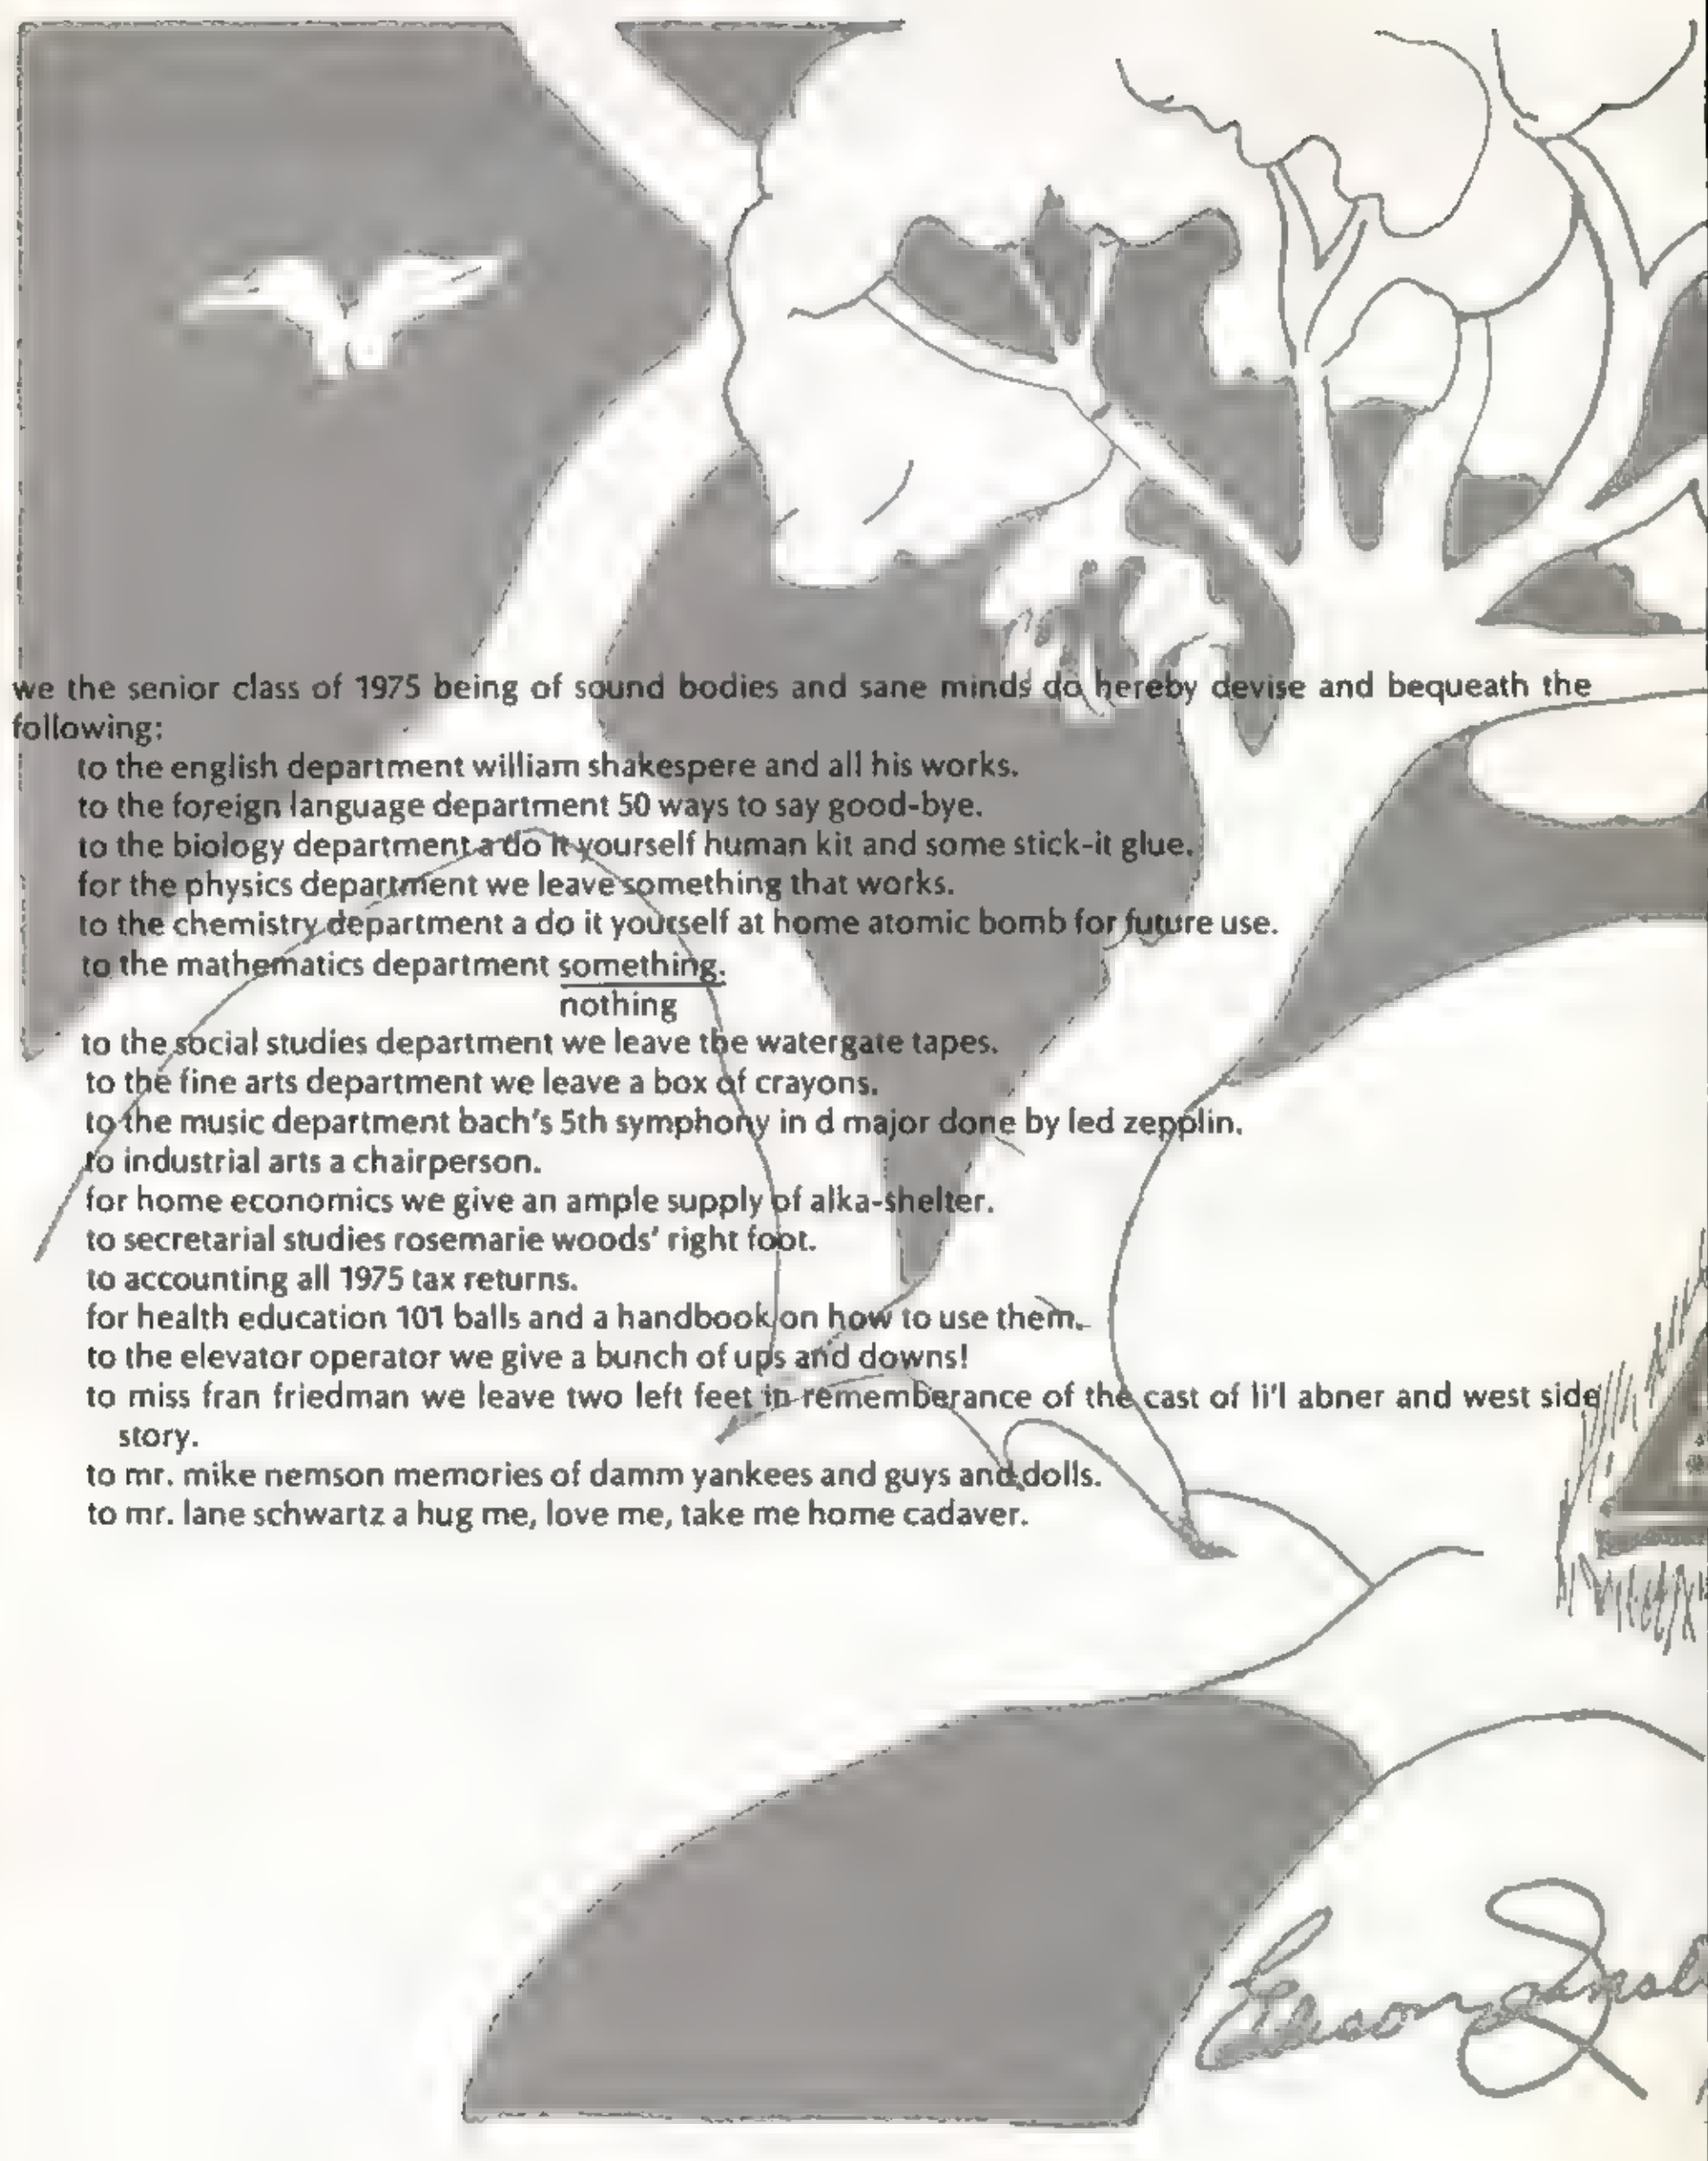

now that it's over, what shall i do?
should i go far away, to a place that is new?
do i stay here and hold on to the things of the past,
trying to make my dear memories last?
what shall i do, i can't make up my mind?
do i search for a place, cause maybe i'll find?
do i take a big chance, just so i'll see,
or remain with my friends who are so dear to me?
well i'm gonna be brave and i'm gonna be strong,
though there's a feeling inside me,
that says i am wrong.

i'm going away, to start life again,
and when i return, will you still love me, my friend?

a word to women

never show your feelings,
never let him know,
for if he thinks that you love him,
he's bound to let you go - he'll flirt with you all day and night
he'll give you quite a stare,
but if you say "I love you dear"
for you he'll cease to care - he'll tell you that your pretty,
he'll caress your face with ease,
but god forbid you smile once
then you'll be on your knees -
take my word i'm telling you men are sure to be as insecure and unassured, as those like you and me.

by harriet koral

to mr. smith
you were more than a teacher,
you were a very good friend to me.
if i needed a special favor,
right there you would always be.
sometimes when i'd walk through the hall,
my name i would hear you call.
i'd turn around and see your smiling face,
that is a memory i'll never erase.
remember the cupcakes i use to bake?
only for you, them i would make.
your class i liked from all the rest,
because mr. smith you were the best!

music all around us — true words at john jay. from early in the morning to late in the afternoon the sounds of music being taught played gently on our ears. we had the opportunity to learn and follow in the footsteps of the masters — bach, beethoven, brahms, zaplitny and albertson. we also enjoyed the traveling musicians who filled our school with christmas spirit and who added the touch of class to our commemoration of music day.

the physical science department offered topics ranging from chemistry to general science and physics. we explored the fundamentals of many areas such as botony and zoology. we studied einstein's theory of relativity and learned how to mix certain chemicals. we saw formulas explode and currents move. the very real world of science was brought forth and our minds set to explore and examine.

the secretarial studies department provided us with the skills necessary to enter the business world. using modern office equipment and machines like the addressograph, copiers and thermofax along with the traditional typewriter students were taught how to operate in the modern office. but machines alone do not make the complete secretary! stenography and clerical practice are required skills also. under the instruction and guidance of the secretarial studies staff these skills were given to us, and for the oceans of tests, forms and notices we received in our years at Jay we have to thank the John Jay Business Services run by this department.

john jay's library was a source of vast knowledge as well as a place for expanding imaginations. one could travel to the high seas with bluebeard, visit camelot with sir arthur, or even take a trip to the moon. the library was there for your convenience, busy with smiling attendents to aid in your accomplishments. the library was like a world where all the treasures of the universe awaited your asking.

The ascent of man from primitive times to the present complex, hectic yet civilized society has been a long hard road. Under Mr. Aaron Braverman, the teachers of the social studies department led us from the cave of ignorance out on the road of enlightenment. We gained an understanding of man's accomplishments throughout history. We gained insight to the way other cultures live. To prepare us for our roles as participating members of American society we learned about the history of this country and about the way our government works. From these courses we were provided with the forum in which our thoughts and feelings on the vital issues that confront society could be shaped.

to find an answer, one must first find himself. we search for the understanding and struggle of life through literature.

the english department provided many avenues for our search. we were provided with classes in many areas, such as drama, journalism, and creative writing. we were taught to believe in ourselves under the careful instruction of our teachers. it is to them that we are indebted for increasing our knowledge in the wonders of the written and spoken word.
